To the Populace of Lochmere

Greetings unto the populace of Lochmere,

Good news do we, Baron Gabrell and Baroness Avice, bring from the wonderful event that was Battle on the Bay. There was much celebration and joy.

Several members of the Barony received awards at Royal Court. Lady Genevieve received a Coral Branch for her stunning glassware. Lady Ravadiana received a Coral Branch for her wonderful art with needle and thread. Baron Dominick and Dame Margery received the King's Dream Scroll for all that they do to support the Dream (especially with their joint production of scrolls). Gunnar Bloodax received special encouragement, in the form of Viking plunder, from his Majesty to continue his fighting.

Additionally, during Baronial court Lord Alessandro Andretti received his Crab's Claw for his fantastic rapier prowess, Lord Cormac has agreed to be our Heavy Champion and Lady Sarra, Lady Ragnevig, and Lady Angeline agreed to remain as our archery champion, A&S champion, and rapier champion respectively.

We want to take this time to thank all those gentles who took time out there day to serve the Barony. In particular, thank you Lady Lisette for retaining for Her Excellency and making her lovely dress. Thank you Lord Segehart for watching over His Excellency, making sure he had drink, food, and take care of things that popped up during the day. Lady Gwen, we have few words that can express the thanks for the amount of work for the Baroness' Tea..It was wonderful. Our former Baroness Eydis threw all compliments your way. Lady Sarra thank you for organizing the populace tent. Thank you as well for inspiring Your Lord to do all the service he does for the Barony.

Thank you everyone who helped out or provided food for the populace tent. Thanks to Duchess Simone, Sir Alfred, Dame Dealla, Baron Kris, Lord Ashton, Lord Segehart, Lady Erennach, Lord Cormac, Lady Sarra, Lady Gwen, and Anne for a lot of heavy lifting and running around.

Special thanks goes to Steven, who was attending his first event. Steven jumped in and was ready to do what ever was needed. He helped raise tents, spoke with everyone he could, helped the Baroness' Tea, and helped wash dishes after feast. This kind gentle has reminded us and everyone he met of why we joined the SCA in the first place. Fan the spark that is there and let it shine bright for all to see.

The next event Baron Gabrell is attending is Fall University
The next event we both will be attending is Coronation. We will be sending out more information regarding that event and our Baronial Progress soon.

In service to the dream,
Baron Gabrell Faircloughe and Baroness Avice Claremond

The Lochmere Coronets by Baron Kyrss Kostarev

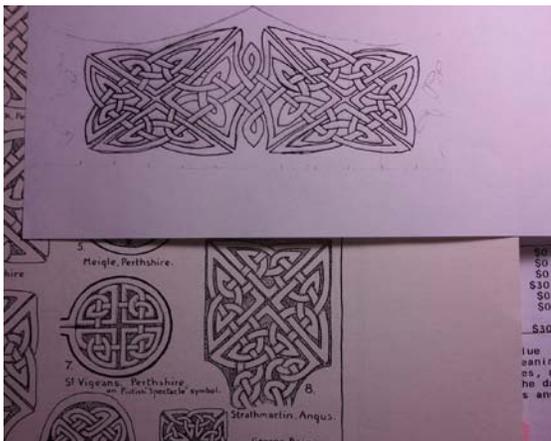

I started working on the Lochmere coronets last year. The first thing I did was to make a set of three designs and color them in. Then I brought them to a business meeting and the barony got to vote on which one they liked the best. All the designs had the iconic Lochmere crab on them. One was very plain and just had three crabs, one had knot work in between each of the crabs, and one had the historic symbols of Myrkwod (the blasted and eradicated tree) and Arindale (the white eagle's head) between the crabs. (Lochmere was created when those two groups were merged.) The version with the knot work was the most popular.

After getting the coronet measurements, I created the final design. I drew the simplified crab from a picture of an actual Chesapeake Bay Blue Crab. I used modern technology to adjust the sizes for each coronet. The knot work between each crab is adapted from a medieval pattern I got from "Celtic Art The Methods of Construction" by George Bain. The basic knot work is considered a Pictish design and was found on a stone in Strathmartin, Angus. After I made the final design, I brought it in and let everyone see it again.

Then I cut the leather into the coronets and transferred the design onto them while the leather was wet. I used a ceramic filigree blade in a swivel knife to do my cuts. The fine detail in this work was literally painful. After the designs were cut, I started shaping the leather. That's what took so long. I got very frustrated with myself because I have done knot work before, but I had not appreciated how twisty and curvy this very fine knot work was. In the course of doing this knot work, I made several tools to help me carve the leather. None of the regular tools available was fine enough or small enough to do this work.

The Lochmere Coronets by Baron Kyrss Kostarev

I had to take a long break during the project and I couldn't work on it at all for a while. Between the fine knot work and my mundane desk work, I developed a repetitive stress injury in my right elbow that required medication, PT, and finally cortisone shots to heal-as well as some drastic ergonomic changes at my desk at work. I dropped out of fencing practice at that time, too.

Finally, I got the design carved and shaped. I painted it with Tandy Leather's Cova Color because, in my experience, that paint has the maximum durability and flexibility. I sealed it with Super Sheen, again, by Tandy. I made the coronet liners out of folded soft, clothing-grade leather cemented in place. The coronets are adjustable by re-tying a leather lace. The Pearls are epoxied in place on brass pins. The brass is a little soft, but neither the leather nor the brass pins should be damaged by being rained on or sweated into.

I usually make coronet boxes for my coronets and Lochmere was no exception. The coronet box is papier-mache and is spray painted to protect it. It is lined in soft leather to protect the coronets. Both coronets fit into a single box because I put a shelf inside. I made the shelf out of foam core and dowels to be light and covered it with leather. I gave it a leather loop for a handle. Lochmere's waves are around the sides of the box. When I am finished, the top will have the Lochmere crab and a laurel wreath.

It is a joy to be of service to their Excellencies of Lochmere, both the outgoing and the incoming, and to the people of Lochmere. I hope that my creation adds to the glory of Lochmere and shines brightly on all of Atlantia.

Kryss Kostarev

FALL CORONATION OF PRINCE MICHAEL & PRINCESS SEONAIID

OCTOBER 3 - 5

http://acorn.atlantia.sca.org/event_flyer.php?event_id=440d5706

Pennsic is over. The summer is ending. It's time to celebrate the coming Season of Change.

Consider the time period: late 14th Century – early 15th Century. With the approach of St. Crispin's Day we remember Agincourt, the great victory of England's Henry V, and those planning battles hereafter must change their tactics when facing such mighty bowmen.

As Henry's brother, John of Lancaster, comes to France, he brings with him English musicians led by John Dunstaple, who offer the sweet new chords and harmonies – the English Consonance -- changing forever the tunes produced by the entranced French and Burgundian composers.

Fashions too are changing, as tight-laced cotehardies give way to sumptuous houplandes and on their heads ladies are trading their wimples and barbettes for padded rolls and henins.

In Atlantia, golden leaves now join the green on the forest-cloaked northern hills, inspiring those decking feast halls to decorate the kingdom's arms of Argent and Azure with Or and Vert. How appropriate then that the colors for the day are blue and white, green and gold.

And Michael of Bedford, our Warrior Prince, will lead his lovely Princess Seonaid to the throne to rule as the King and Queen of the Harvest and a season of peace. For we cap this season of change with a change of monarchs. Come to Bright Hills for Fall Coronation.

Heralds and bards are tuning their voices, and musicians are tuning their instruments.

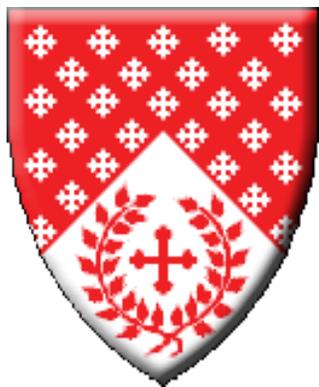

Martial Activities: Come display your prowess in the martial arts. His Royal Highness would see the kingdom's fighting men compete with greatsword and in a Bedford Points Tournament, while Her Royal Highness wishes displays of skill with rapier. Archers are requested to prove their marksmanship and Men and Women of the Horse to demonstrate their control of their steeds.

Arts & Sciences Activities: Come show the wealth of the kingdom: the skills of its artisans and scientists. The theme for the arts and sciences shall be Atlantia. There will also be a Tempora Atlantia competition with the time period of 1250 – 1400

Site: Camp Spencer, Broad Creek Memorial Scout Reservation 1739 Peach Orchard Road Street, MD 21154. Site opens Friday 5pm, closes Sunday noon.

CHALICE OF THE SUN GODS XI: GOLDN AGE FO THE TITANS

OCTOBER 25

<http://pontalto.atlantia.sca.org/events/chalice.php>

This year we honor the Titans, the predecessors/parents to the Greek Gods. We will have competitions in armored, rapier, archery, A&S, and Bardic/Performance (and our team competition). We have chosen one Titan to inspire competitors in each discipline. A&S and Bardic/Performance can look to any of these Titans for inspiration for their entries.

The winner of each competition will challenge the 2013 Chalice Champion in that discipline. The winners receive bragging rights, the duty to challenge next year's winners, and CHOCOLATE!

All can compete in individual disciplines and as part of a team. Teams must field a single participant in 4 of the 5 Chalice disciplines. A team may include up to 3 Youth participants. Each participant shall receive points for participation and performance (extra points are awarded for youth participation!). The team with the highest score will be declared the winner of the Chalice of the Sun God. Please see the "Team Competition Rules" link on the event website for more information about this part of the competition.

Martial Activities: Heavy Fighting: Perses, the Titan god of destruction, will be the inspiration for our heavy combat. Details of the tournament format will be provided closer to the event date.

Rapier: Pallas, the Titan god of warcraft, will inspire our rapier fighters. Pallas was the father of Victory, Rivalry, Strength and Power by Styx (Hate), children who turned to the side of Zeus during the Titan-War. Pallas' name was derived from the Greek word pallô meaning "to brandish (a spear)." Details will be posted closer to the event date.

Archery: Lelantos, the younger Titan god of air and the hunter's skill of stalking prey is our inspiration for archers. Lelantos' name was derived from the Greek words lêthô, lanthanô, and lelathon, meaning "to escape notice," "move unseen" or "go unobserved."

Arts & Sciences Activities: A&S: Astraeus, the Titan god of stars and planets, and the art of astrology, is the inspiration for A&S projects. The display will be on the first floor in Sykes Hall. Contact Master Marcellus Capozziello da Napoli at afpopa@yahoo.com with any questions.

Bardic/Performance: Mnemosyne, the personification of memory or remembrance, will inspire the performers. She represented the rote memorization required, before the introduction of writing, to preserve the stories of history and sagas of myth. It is said that Kings and Poets receive their powers of authoritative speech from her. Competition will take place upstairs in Sykes Hall at 11:00.

Lady Deirdre O'Bardon, Poeta Atlantiae, is sponsoring a written poetry competition (which is separate from the Chalice Team Competition). More information will be available on the Kingdom's Facebook page, through Atlantian Announcements/Merry Rose, and through her Facebook page. Please contact Lady Deirdre with any questions.
