Cover: Illustration from John Lydgate's Siege of Troy, showing the Wheel of Fortune held/turned by the Quene of Fortune. On the left, Dame Doctryne is accompanied by two male figures, Holy Texte and Scripture, and two female figures, Glose and Moralyzacion. They are shown helping people rise on Fortune's Wheel because, Lydgate says, scripture is about that which shall fall.

'So as the Crabbe Goth Foward' by John Lydgate (mid 15th Century)

---

Original

Ther is nowe founde no falsnesse:
Right is so mighty of puissaunce;
Feyth hathe exyled doublenesse,
Fortune chaungethe not hir chaunse,
Beheest abydithe in constaunce,
Frenship is found no coward,
Light with derkeness hathe acordaunce

So as the crabbe gothe forward.

(Translation)

There is no lying found these days:
Justice is such a mighty authority;
Loyalty has banished duplicity,
Fortune never changes events,
Promises are kept forever,
a friend is never found to be a coward,
Light is in harmony with darkness

All just as the crab goes forward
[i.e. crookedly!]

Found on the site below, discussing how being sarcastic while writing poetry is nothing new.

The Walters Art Museum Exhibit:

Pearls on a String: Artist, Patrons, and Poets at the Great Islamic Courts

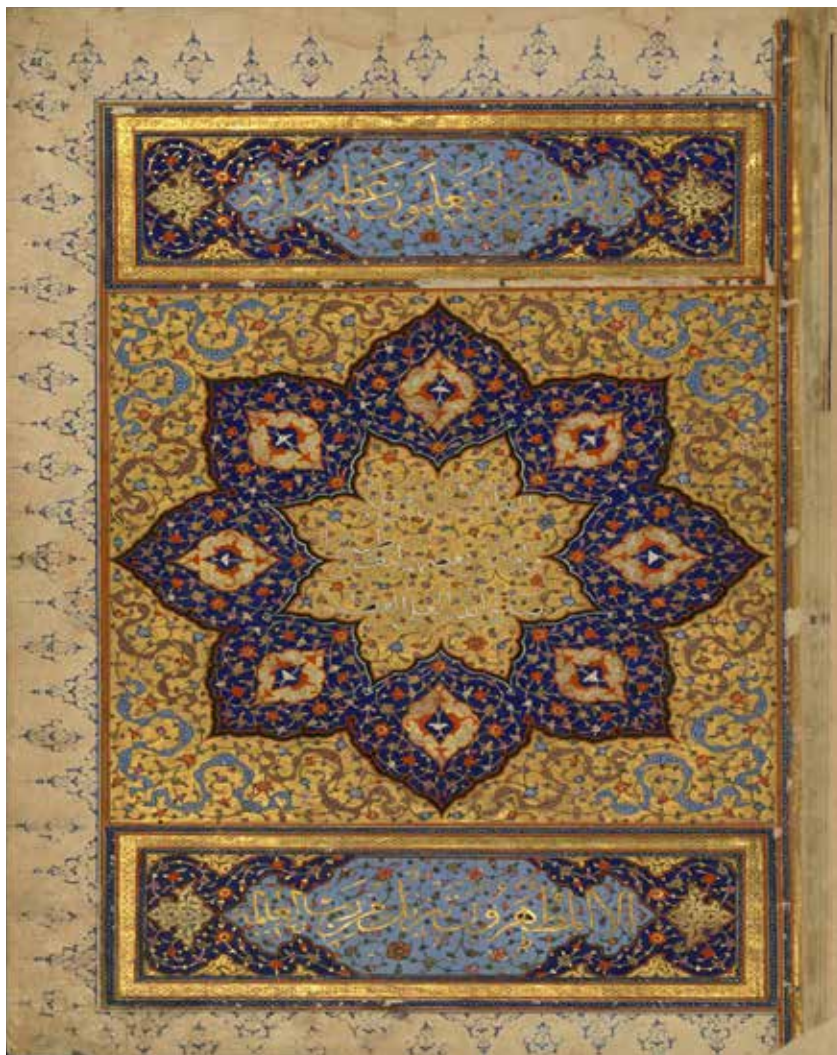

The great Mughal, Safavid, and Ottoman empires flourished during a time of rapid change and artistic innovation in the Islamic world, as people, ideas, and technologies spread across Europe and Asia. At the heart of the empires' courts were networks of individuals—writers, poets, artists, craftsmen—who produced extraordinary works of art for the ruling elite. From November 8, 2015, through January 31, 2016, the Walters Art Museum will present Pearls on a String: Artists, Patrons, and Poets at the Great Islamic Courts, the first major exhibition to focus on these influential and often charismatic individuals

The free exhibition features more than 120 works including paintings, calligraphy, textiles, ceramics, and jeweled luxury objects. Dating from the 16th to the 18th century, these exquisite works of art were created in historic India, Iran, and Turkey, a vast geographic area that extends from the Bay of Bengal to the Mediterranean Sea.

Baronial Chatelain Vacancy

The Barony of Lochmere is currently looking for individuals to fill the position of Baronial Chatelain. This office serves as the initial contact point and liaison for newcomers looking for information on the SCA as well as how to get more involved in our Barony. The Baronial Chatelain reports to the Baronial Seneschal as well as the Kingdom Chatelain.

If you are interested, please contact the Baronial Seneschal and the Baronial Chatelains.

Chronicler's Challenge

Thank you for taking the time to read The Dredgings!

This month's challenge...

This one is a little tricky, so if you let me know the answer before Pennsic 2016, I will still reward you...

My peer, Countess Honor of Restormal, spent several years of her childhood in what country and and later visited that country as Queen of Drachenwald?

Be the first to email me the answer and I will reward you! (sarradevicenza@outlook.com)

From last month:

Her Majesty, Queen Adelhait enjoys cheeseburgers and pizza but what other specific flavor of food is she a fan of?

She enjoys "Buffaloed" foods.

Good luck and keep reading....I will have more Baronial, Kingdom, and SCA trivia in 2016!

~ Lady Sarra de Vicenza
