Lochmere Mixologists

Calling all Lochmere Mixologists,

I have a confession to make. I am suffering from a bit of envy. At War of the Wings this year, our fine cousins in Bright Hills shared a beverage named "The Bright Hills Sling". Yes, they have their own Baronial cocktail. It was quite tasty, and I must admit to now desiring a Baronial cocktail of our own.

Therefore at our April Event, Night on (under) the Tartan, April 14-16, I will be sponsoring a competition for the Baronial Cocktail. The winning beverage will then be featured at Pennsic and Battle on the Bay, and the winner will receive a prize (TBD).

Parameters:

- 1) Taste – first and foremost.
- 2) The beverage must contain at least one main period ingredient. The more authentic, the better, but do not sacrifice taste for accuracy.
- 3) Bonus – catchy Lochmere themed name.

I hope many of you have fun trying out new recipes this winter.

YIS,

Avice

The Clan of Smeewick churns with excitement as they proudly anticipate the return of their favorite Scot, Bruce, the Bruce. The commotion boils, barely contained. Our clan folk eager to hear the details of how that cold February day in Dumfries unfolded.

They knew Bruce still had his good name! Poor cousin Bob, not so much. Being good Scots and to raise Bruce's spirits; the clan and her nobles have planned a day of celebration! Come and enjoy a challenging series of our own personal version of Scottish Games and a sumptuous feast. Join us in the Barony of Lochmere inside the gates of Smeewick to greet our clansman, Bruce.
