Their Excellencies...

o our Populace of Lochmere your Baron and Baroness send our warmest regards,

This is a missive we never thought we would have to write. As it stands now, a good majority of us are under strong recommendations by the CDC to not meet in groups of more than ten people due to COVID-19. That along with basically all SCAdian activities being shut down, some might see this as a dark time for our Society. We disagree. It is said the strength of any organization is in its people. We can categorically state, from our observations, that our Society is strong. It is resilient.

We have seen great acts of kindness and love. Not only for our Populace, but also our Kingdom and our Society. We were fortunate to be able to host a virtual gathering of Tochmeri, and it was nice to be able to have interactions with our friends. We have seen good gentles offer up their time online to teach. To talk. To commiserate. To share in practice the ideals in which our Society is based upon: Courage, Justice, Mercy, Generosity, Nobility and Hope.

Now is the time to remain vigilant and aware. Please heed our Governmental recommendations when in public. You may unknowingly be a carrier and could infect those of us that are in an at risk group for infection. Please practice good hand washing techniques.

We want to see all of you at an event after all of this is over. We charge you to do your best to make sure that happens.

Yours in Service, Always. Cormacc and Sarra reetings and Good Cidings to All, Many of us find ourselves in unusual circumstances, but all of us have experienced a sudden change to our daily schedules and routines. For some, this will create stress and uncertainty, and I hope I can provide some belp in alleviating this by offering activities and opportunities to keep our minds and hands active.

In addition to the albums I've posted on the Baronial facebook page, I would also like to recommend other facebook groups for learning. Specifically, The Donorable Clover and the SCA Virtual Classroom. As an added bonus, a variance has been issued to extend University Credit for online classes through these sites until June 1st. All students and instructors must self-report classes taught or taken to receive credit via Google docs <a href="https://credit.com/bit

forms.gle/CSMuVbolrZqg2yC6

I encourage everyone to take time to create, even when times are difficult and stress is high even a small moment of something for you can make a difference in your mental health. I will continue to post make along projects as often as I can and I sincerely hope others will do the same. Community is important and now is the best time to turn toward your chosen family.

To that end, I would like to give recognition to Mistress Genevieve d'Aquitaine for her naalbinding tutorial, because of her hands have been busy and cats have been entertained. Win-win for everyone in this bouse!

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Asafoetida (Ferula assa-foetida)

Asafoetida is the dried latex (gum oleoresin) exuded from the rhizome or tap root of several species of Ferula, perennial herbs growing 3.3 to 4.9 ft tall

It is an herbaceous plant of the umbelliferae family much like fennel or carrot. The gum resin from the sap of the roots and stem of ferula species, which is a giant fennel, exudes a stinking odor. It is also referred to as "Hing" or Devils Dun."

The hard resinous gum that is a grayish-white when fresh, darkens with age to yellow, red and eventually brown . It is sold in blocks or pieces as a gum and more frequently as a fine yellow powder, sometimes crystalline or granulated . It has a pungent smell of rotting onions or garlic and can be very unpleasant,

Asafoetida or asafetida (Ferula assafoetida)

but when cooked takes on an onion type flavor. It is an ancient spice that has been found in many Roman and Middle Eastern sources and it is said that Alexander the Great carried "Stink finger" west in 4 BCE.

The Romans believed that asafetida was an aphrodisiac. They also used it to sooth stomach pain. In medieval medical claims, it was said to ward off evil (or things that caused illness), so small pieces of the resin would be hung around children's necks to protect them from disease.

It is used in Indian ayurvedic medicine and is believed to enhance a singers voice as well as an aid in digestion by expelling gas from the body as well as soothing stomach pain.

In religions such as the Jain, where it was against the religion to kill for consumption, the spice was used in lieu of onions or garlic, which are considered "angry" ingredients that can incite passion.

Romans would bury it in flour and then use the infused flour in their cooking to help negate the strong effects.

Today the spice is used as a digestive aid, a condiment, and in pickling and is mainly used in Indian vegetarian cuisine as a savory enhancer. It is used along with turmeric and is a typical part of lentil curries and vegetable dishes. It is also used in vegetarian Punjabi cuisine where it enhances the flavor of numerous dishes. Kashmiri cuisine also uses it in lamb dishes. It is sometimes used with sweet, sour, salty, and spicy components in food. Sometimes dried and ground asafoetida can be mixed with salt and eaten with raw salad.

Containers of powdered asafoetida

It does permeate into other foods and spices so it must be kept in air tight container.

When cooking with it you must use in very small amounts because it is very pungent.

If the resin is used, it is suggested that a small amount be stuck to the top of the lid while a dish is simmering in order to give the dish an indirect flavoring from the spice.

Wowes this wilde drakes; Miles murgeth huere makes, Ase strem that striketh stille. Mody meneth, so doth mo; Ichot ycham on of tho, For love that likes ille.

The mone mandeth hire lyht, So doth the semly sonne bryht, When briddes singeth breme; Deawes donketh the dounes, Deores with huere derne rounes Domes forte deme: Wormes woweth under cloude. Wymmen waxeth wounder proude, So wel hit wol hem seme, Yef me shal wonte wille of on. This wunne weole y wole forgon Ant wyht in wode be fleme.

Spring has come with love to town, With blossoms and with birds' rounds.o

Which all this bliss bringeth; Daisies in these dales, Notes sweet of nightingales; Each fowl a song singeth. The threstlecock he scoldeth aye; Away is their winter woe,

When woodruff springeth. These fowls singeth fairly much, And look back on their winter weal.o

So that all the wood ringeth.

The rose puts on her red; The leaves on the trembling trees Grow forth with eagerness. The moon sends forth her brightness; The lily is lovely to see, The fennel and chervil. Woo these wild drakes; Beasts entertain their mates, As streams which ever flow. Sad ones moan, so do many more; I know I am one of those, Who are ill-pleased with love.

The moon sends forth her light, So doth the pleasing sun bright, When birds sing lustily; Dews drench the hills, Lovers with their secret songs Their own laws to make; Wyrms woo underground, Women grow wondrously proud, Which seems so becoming to them:

If I shall lack the goodwill of one, This wondrous wealth I will forgo And this wight in the woods be banished.

HISTORY HIGHLIGHTS

REINHEITSGEBOT

1516 Duke Wilhelm IV of Bavaria endorses "The German Beer Purity Law" April 23, 1516

The original German text of the Bavarian Reinheitsgebot is as follows:

Ganz besonders wollen wir, dass forthin allenthalben in unseren Städten, Märkten und auf dem Lande zu keinem Bier mehr Stücke als allein Gersten, Hopfen und Wasser verwendet und gebraucht werden sollen.

Wer diese unsere Anordnung wissentlich übertritt und nicht einhält, dem soll von seiner Gerichtsobrigkeit zur Strafe dieses Fass Bier, so oft es vorkommt, unnachsichtig weggenommen werden.

Translation:

In particular we decree that henceforth, in our towns, markets, and in the countryside, nothing but barley, hops, and water shall be used to brew beer.

Anyone who knowingly violates this decree shall be punished by the court by having each of these beer barrels removed from his possession.

The Munich law was implemented across Bavaria on April 23, 1516. With the newly unified Germany, Bavaria pushed for this law to be applied throughout the county. Above is a photograph of the original text of the Bavarian Reinheitsgebot from 1516 that is held in the Library of Congress in their Rare Books Collection.

The law allowed only three ingredient that could be used while producing beer and that was water, barley and hops. There is no mention of yeast as an ingredient because there wasn't any knowledge of its existence.

The law also set the price of beer which depended on the time of year and type of beer that was being sold. It also limited how much profit innkeepers could make off of beer they produced. Confiscation was the penalty for producing impure beer.

The law of 1516 was also created to help regulate the price of wheat and rye for bakers in order to have affordable bread available for the people of Bavaria by only allowing barely for brewers and wheat and rye for bakers.

Even thought the Reinheitsgebot is not the oldest food safety law in existence it probably is the most famous and longest in use. In the mid-1500s Bavaria began to allow additional ingredients to beer such as coriander, bay leaf, and wheat. Once yeast was discovered in modern times the law was changed to include it amongst the ingredients allowed in brewing. Over the years other modifications have been made to the law to allow for modern brewing techniques. The basic law now states the only malted grains, hops, water, and yeast are allowed.

If you have not had the pleasure of drinking a German beer I highly suggest that you do. I had the please of living in Germany for three years and I have to say that German beer is probably the best beer I have ever had, with my favorite being Dunkles and Doppelbock. These are both dark beers with rich matly flavors.

The beer brewer stirs with a long stick in the brewing pan set in a brick fireplace. On the floor are two tubs with the brewing ingredients. A hexagram, the brewer's star, hangs on an extension arm above the master brewer, which is probably to be understood as a protective symbol.
